Natural Resources:

Stocks of the nature, useful to the man kinds are called natural resources.

Inexhaustible Natural Resources. Exhaustible Natural Resources.

Today the basic needs of the life are fulfilled by material present in nature.

The primitive Human beings had used only those resources that supported their life.

We manipulate these Resources to produce whatever is required.

The growing population, industrialization, consequent urbanization has compelled us to over exploit these natural resources.

Inexhaustible resources are present in unlimited quantity in the nature and they are not likely to be exhausted by human activities.

They are:

Solar radiation, Air, Water.
